CHAPTER 23
A Lesson

His grief was a revelation to her. She had not dreamed he had so wanted a child. Once he was assured that his wife was no longer in danger, Allen gave himself up unreservedly to his bitter disappointment.

"You mustn't, Buddy, you mustn't! Think of poor Pats, how much harder it's going to be for her."

He stared at her incredulously. "Pats, disappointed? She's hoped for this very thing all along—made no secret about it! But I—my last hope of fatherhood, she—no woman who dislikes children as Pats does will ever give a child to me!"

Better to Borrow Than

BOG

One of the saddest men we know is the fellow who never seems able to afford a new car or the household conveniences his wife longs for.

"After my bills are paid," he always says, "perhaps I can manage to save a little." But some how he never does. You can lay a safe bet that this man has never heard of The City Loan. He doesn't know that he can borrow enough money here on his own signature and security... to square up all his debts and buy the things he needs besides. A single monthly payment covers everything.

MARION HOMEMAKERS: Some people never seem to get any fun out of life. Enjoy the things you need and want. Call on us for cash to carry out your plans.

The City Loan

194 W. Center St., Marion, O.
Phone 1209.

Loans made promptly throughout Marion County and nearby communities.

"I suppose I am—for her being in town it's up to me to keep her from annoying you, Allen."

"Bob, that's the last thing you must do! You're the last person to do it in any way. And it didn't accomplish a thing. Patsy will be as often as the police another Allen. Let's not do it. I've told you both before the only thing to do is to wait till she's tired of St. Joe and goes her way. I'll be home next week. Surely I'll be making her plans for the winter season. If we just sit tight and keep our dignity a bit longer, she will all right."

Sue proved that off a true prophet. Mrs. Meade Trenton returned from the city almost as suddenly as she had appeared. Whether she was bored by Patsy's antics, whether she recognized that neither Sue nor Bob intended to allow her to make them angry, or whether, as Sue had said, she had plans which now pressed, the result was the same. She told her car, gave up her furnished house, and was driven to Kansas City where she took a place for New Year.

Insured a bad time for Allen's wife. With returning strength she shed her lacy robes and negligees; had need of a new fall wardrobe. She called Sue sweetly and asked her to come in for lunch. Sue as sweetly refused. The invitation was repeated, and again refused. Then Patsy took the matter up with Allen and he came out to see his sister.

"Aren't you treating Pats a little badly? You've seen her only once since—since the hospital. She told me last night she was trying her best to be friends with you, Sue. I know she's not your sort, I know she was most distasteful to you, but she's my wife. He sighed unconsciously. "I suppose she does the best she knows, Sis. You can't put a quart into a pint measure."

"Allen, you keep out of this! I'm disciplining Pats. If I let her get by with this, she'll be out of hand forever. I know her better than you can ever hope to do. I don't contradict me because she's a woman, and I'm a woman. Trust me, Allen!"

She was a little startled at the long steady look he gave her.

"More to this than I know about, Sue?"

The first really mischievous smile her lips had known for many days deepened their corners now.

"We'll—in a way, Buddy! But it's strictly a feminine way, and nothing for you to meddle with."

She was puzzled at the stark relief in his eyes.

"I'll leave her in your hands then; they're kind little hands, Sue. It's somewhat apt to box the ears of bad little girls."

Even Bob approached her presently.

"Goodness knows I have no love for Pats, but she's your brother's wife, Sue. Unless you want a permanent estrangement—"

Sue was exasperated.

"Will you men keep out of this? I warned Pats last summer that she'd have need of me and now she has. That need is going to become a lot more acute than it is at present before I give in. I don't fool myself that I can make Patsy over, but I do have every intention of making her treat me with ordinary civility."

"What does she want of you, Sue?"

"Clothes," was the succinct answer. "Heaps and heaps of new fall clothes. She counted on Cecily to get them for her, and Cecily didn't. Now I am going to teach that young lady a much needed lesson."

In this she was cheered on enthusiastically by Barbara Webb who was present one afternoon when Pats, despairing of bringing Sue to her, took herself to Sue. Patsy was falling and the two girls were cooing and tea beside the fire in Sue's upstairs sanctuary, when Pats came in without being announced.

"Don't scold Nelly," she said gaily. "She did her very best to shunt me into the reception room until she had your august permission to let me come up. How are you, Sue darling?" She enveloped the younger girl in arms which were last winter's coat. "Look at it," she bade the others gaily. "Practically threadbare, isn't it?"

"It looks good as new to me," Barbara remarked blithely. "It was new last Easter. I remember perfectly. I happened to be with you when you coaxed Sue to buy it."

"But it's horribly out of style! The fashions are so different this fall. I felt positively conspicuous in it, wearing it out here."

"Will you have some tea, Patsy?" Sue's tone was expressionless.

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Medical Progress in 1939

AS IN former years, the greatest amount of research and the greatest amount of progress in the whole field of medicine in 1939 has been in infectious diseases, and the most hopeful work has been done this year in the treatment of pneumonia. This is due to the application of the drug, sulfa-pyridine.

Sulfa-pyridine is a dye. For many years it has been known that dyes of various kinds are selective in their action in that they will kill germs in the blood stream without injuring the blood or the tissues. This is the basis of the "magic bullet" of Ehrlich—salvarsan, which has an affinity for the spirochaeta of syphilis but does not harm the tissues of the body and, therefore, by its administration we are able to get rid of the germ and leave the body intact. It is a kind of chemical surgery. Dyes which have been used along the same lines include mercurochrome and gentian violet. None of them, however, has the advantages of sulfa-pyridine.

In the first place, sulfa-pyridine can be given by mouth, whereas mercurochrome has to be given by vein. It kills an enormous range of germs. It has been used successfully in pneumonia, meningitis, scarlet fever, mumps, kidney infection, bacterial endocarditis, iritis, congenital blindness, and, indeed, is being applied to practically any general infection.

I have not seen any report of its application to localized infections such as carbuncles or boils, or osteomyelitis, but I suggest this as a possible development.

With the use of sulfa-pyridine, the fall of temperature to normal within 24 to 36 hours occurs in a large proportion of pneumonia cases. A fall in temperature is accompanied by improvement in the patient's general condition, and after that the consolidation in the lung clears up gradually.

It has some disagreeable by-effects because it produces nausea and vomiting in about two-thirds of the cases, and occasionally a skin eruption, but these are not serious. All powerful drugs have some disagreeable by-effects.

The Nobel prize goes to Prof. Gerhard Domagala for his invention and discovery of sulfa-pyridine. He was born in Langow, Germany, in 1895. He was professor of pathology at the University of Greifswald, after which he associated himself with the Institute of Experimental Pathology of the I. G. Dye Works in Elberfeld.

Progress in other contagious diseases includes the following: Control of scarlet fever by active immunization with the toxine. This has been proved repeatedly by the immunization of pupil nurses before they go on duty in scarlet fever wards.

Severe epidemics of diphtheria have occurred in Europe, England and South America, of the malignant type. Where antitoxin was available, it was found that it controlled the malignant type as well as it did the ordinary type. In whooping cough, the use of

"I suppose I'll have to. I suppose there is a hope of a cork-tail."

"Two bumps? Are you sure you were used to cork-tail in this rain?"

Patsy sighed. "I never was. Sue I should think you of all people would know that. But I am a good friend," she went on virtuously, turning to Allen. "I said to Allen, 'Allen, I'm afraid I've hurt Sue's feelings. It makes me terribly unhappy to be at odds with people I love.' So—I never even looked to see if it was raining or not. I didn't turn on a dime when I found it was coming down in torrents. I just hopped into the car."

"What does Allen do when you use the cork?" Barbara interjected.

Patsy shot her angry look. Sue alone was good enough to bend to her will, but Sue, reinforced by Barbara's presence, was doubtless right. Nevertheless Patsy went on bravely.

"I don't believe you've realized, Sue dear, how long you've neglected Mr. Allen. He's said to me over and over, 'my wife and my sister—it would break my heart if they weren't friends.'"

Her two listeners greeted this pathetic outburst with broad grins.

"I can just hear Allen saying it," Barbara commented.

Astronomers at Delaware Told How Stars Are Physicists' Laboratories

High Temperatures and Other Conditions Impossible To Duplicate on Earth Studied in Stars.

Special to The Star
DELAWARE, O., Dec. 29.—Physicists at the Delaware College of Science and Arts today told a group of astronomers that the stars are their laboratories. The astronomers, who were here for a session of the American Astronomical Society at Austin, Ohio Wesleyan University, said that the stars are the only places where the conditions of high temperatures and other conditions impossible to duplicate on earth can be studied.

One of the common elements, iron, is so abundant in the universe that it lends itself most easily as a tool for the investigation of stellar conditions. "In order to complete the theory of the ionization of the iron atom, it is necessary to obtain from the stars the data which cannot be obtained on earth."

At the present time, according to Dr. Struve, scientists are able to get a better picture of the existing condition of the atmosphere of the stars. New spectral types of stars in the North Polar sequence were described by Dr. Philip C. Keenan of Yerkes Observatory, formerly of the Perkins staff here. The sequence of which he spoke is used by astronomers as a standard of stellar brightness.

Previous estimates of the reddening of these stars at the Pole are too large, Dr. Keenan suggested, as a result of his computations of spectrograms taken with the 82-inch reflector of the McDonald Observatory in Texas. Dr. A. N. Vysotsky and his party of University of Virginia astronomers telegraphed yesterday that the snow covered mountains of Pennsylvania were a barrier and that the party was forced to turn back. Dr. Vysotsky was to have spoken yesterday afternoon on the spectroscopy.

Reception Given
Yesterday afternoon Dr. Herbert J. Burghardt, president of Ohio Wesleyan, and Mrs. Burghardt, held a reception in Austin hall. There was no session last night, the scientists going to Columbus to hear Dr. Kirtley Mather's Sigma Xi address before the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Climax in Finland

ON Nov. 20, Soviet Russia showed its hand in Finland by charging it had been attacked.
The war was on. A month later, it has come to a climax with massing of red troops for a final effort to break Finnish resistance. Finland's fate cannot hang in the balance much longer.
The world admires the Finns for defending themselves bravely against an overwhelmingly superior force. But Russia has the manpower, the supplies and no doubt the tenacity to overcome its capable but weaker opponent. There never has been any question about the ultimate outcome of the war with Finland fighting alone.
The only question there has been is whether enough outside assistance would be made available to avert Finland's collapse. Considerable assistance has been reported, but not enough to alter the prospect of ultimate defeat. Finland needs hundreds of thousands of trained soldiers, millions of dollars' worth of equipment—and needs them immediately.

It is this prospect that now must be examined honestly. For a month, Finnish resistance has encouraged a delusion of Finnish triumph.
Soviet Russian prestige has been shattered, but the fact remains that Finland is doomed to extinction if, as now appears to be the case, the red army is going to throw its full resources into the fray. Finland won't be saved by wishful thinking any more than Czechoslovakia was saved by the pact of Munich.

Henry L. Doherty

THE brain was put in the head at the top of the body so it could be isolated from disturbances down below. Then a two-way communication system was installed and the plan was ruined. The body became a partner in the arrangement instead of an employee.

Occasionally, there is an exception. Henry L.
Doherty was one. He has died at the age of 69 after directing one of the largest business organizations in the world from a hospital bed for the last three years. He was the muster mind behind Cities Service Co.

Mr. Doherty probably would not have wanted to have this part of his unusual career overemphasized. His affliction was not lifelong, even though it was of sufficient duration to discourage most men long before it finally robbed him of the privilege of motion.

Probably it was not remarkable at all that he surmounted this handicap. He had overcome others almost as great in his rise to the top—lack of education, for instance. He had amazing capacity for effort. Not content to be a top-flight business man, he found time and patience to carve a distinguished record in engineering.
When the occasion arose, he found time to learn how to master pain too.

His success story, like most of them, is really the story of diligence. In such men the pent-up energy of the atom seems to be released.

Dynamite Fences

LITTLE boys and girls will learn in their 1940 geography lessons that Great Britain is an island surrounded by mines on the east, submarines on the south, Ireland on the west, battleships on the north, and airplanes overhead. To keep up to date, they will have to read the daily newspaper.

For instance, the mines on the east have been mostly German ones, up to this time. In the future, they will be British mines, laid inside the German mines, for the purpose of keeping enemy craft away from British shores. This will be duly noted in the revised text, which will tell of 200,000-odd mines strung from Scapa Flow to the Straits of Dover. There never was such a mine field before in history.

This dynamite fence, matching other fences of the same kind in the North sea, is the latest wrinkle in ruffled international relations. When it is completed, unless someone mislays the charts, British boats will be able to come in and go out with the greatest of ease and safety, but trespassers will be blown to bits. In the same way, German boats know how to go in and out of Germany's mine fields, but British, French and neutral boats must take the consequences.

It must be a task to explain this to young geographers wondering why when the earth's so big the people on it should be wanting to blow one another into oblivion.

News Behind News

Farley Reported To Have Turned Down
La Guardia as Vice President Candidate.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—Democrat
Chairman Jim Farley has definitely turned down Mayor LaGuardia for the 1940 vice-presidential nomination.

An effort was made under near-white house auspices to work up this matter during the recent visit of New York's American labor party mayor to Washington.
Prospect of bringing "the little thing" into the No. 2 spot next time was considered a seriously contested proposition by La-Guardia's associates here that they put the matter up to Farley with or without the President's approval.

Farley replied no one except a Major LaGuardia could be considered for either second or first place at the next Democratic convention.

Perhaps this explains the subsequent chipping from the licks corner of the New Deal threatening to have a third party.
Mr. Roosevelt is not having any third parties now and probably not later. Neither is Mr. La-Guardia. It is a good talking idea for windbags to blow around.
It will be attempted only in case the Rooseveltians want to make the election of a Republican certain.

LaGuardia's Outlook

The President did not get La-Guardia down here to talk about that. The conference was arranged by the New Yorker's friends in the New Deal (notably able A. A. Berle, the No. 1 Roosevelt brannister and assistant state secretary) who have been trying to get LaGuardia into the New Deal movement since 1933.
If any merger is effected it will be on the basis of promising La-Guardia the labor secretaryship in the next Democratic cabinet or a presidential appointment as mediator of the C.I.O.-A.F.L. dispute, both springing spots from which the clever New Yorker could bounce into the 1944 presidential spotlight. Either place would make him a campaign speaker on the New Deal side right away, and that is what the boys here want.

The labor secretaryship promise is the one most likely to work out.

McNutt Fading

Blackout?—The wise men here are scratching Paul McNutt off their lists of presidential possibilities. They promise news developments in the next 60 days which will turn the official thumb down on him.

If it develops that way, there will be many a broken egg among the seeds who cracked out on LaGuardia predicting and arguing the Roosevelt nomination on the assumption Mr. Roosevelt wanted him.

Hull in Spotlight

Lime-light—Hull is getting the inner official spotlight now. The state secretary is being talked up increasingly by the downtown administration crowd. It is admitted however, his chance will be made or broken in his forthcoming reciprocal trade treaty trip with the Senate.

Boosting Hull's Plan

Promotion—Mr. Roosevelt is going down the line for Hull on the trade treaty issue. The President will shortly let it be known he is planning a freestride that in January to advertise to the nation the benefits of Mr. Hull's handiwork.

More Forecasts

Forecast—More forecasts for the coming congressional session (in addition to those submitted yesterday):

The Senate interstate commerce committee will not recommend compulsory consolidation of Western Union and Postal when it receives the report of the federal communications commission which is imminent. The Gageon antilynching bill will be passed by the house early in January, but the Senate will kill it by a fil-buster. A housing program will be offered by House Republicans but it has no chance of adoption.
Republican strategy has been agreed between Senator McNary and Rep. Joe Martin. They will let the New Deal strike, then counter attack, planning the big fight on reciprocal trade. National defense appropriations recommended by Roosevelt will be passed by Congress. A report by the Byrd reorganization committee will disclose that the listed assets of R.F.C. HOLC, TVA, etc., are not as rosy as the administration has pretended.

Broomstick Army

Opera bouffe—Incredible as it sounds, 15 of the 20 Russian divisions which have been fighting in Finland were virtually a broomstick army up until a week before the war started. Real guns and bullets were not allowed them regularly because authorities did not trust them.

Stalin has now sent five crack (to the extent that anything Russian is crack) divisions into the assault. His military advisers figured these will be sufficient.

Blaming It All on Dictators Doesn't Satisfy.

FRENCH TROOPS: Victory through revolution?

This is one of a series of articles on important developments in various fields in the decade just ending.

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Foreign Affairs
Writer

THE glib breakdown of laws and changes governing international relations, which has developed so rapidly in the last half dozen years that armed aggression and diplomatic crises have become commonplace, likely will be recorded ultimately as marking an epoch in the history of mankind. Instances include the Japanese conquest of Manchuria, the Italian conquest of Ethiopia, and the German conquest of Austria, Czechoslovakia, and Poland.

In seeking an explanation of this upheaval, the first things to strike us are that these plague spots are as widespread as to affect a large part of the globe and that most of them are related in some way to totalitarian governments.

The Easiest Way
The easiest way to dismiss the subject is to assess the blame against the personal ambitions of individual dictators. However, that explanation is far from satisfactory.

We are even less satisfied with this argument when our search discloses that, coincident with these international clashes, political upheavals of varying degrees of intensity are proceeding in numerous countries of both hemispheres. Like the international clashes, they are evidences of dissatisfaction with the established order of things.

The general nature of virtually all these manifestations makes it hard to escape the conviction that the world is undergoing a great convulsion for a readjustment of inequalities of society.

No Uniformity

This readjustment has to do not only with the conditions existing within the individual nations but with the relations of the states to each other. It is more violent in some places than in others.

We still have to reconcile the armed aggression to this idea of a social revolution. The immediate cause of the revolt acts probably lies in the fact that dictators exercise absolute power in numerous instances. Some of these rulers have taken it upon themselves to make their own international laws.

But we mustn't forget that these same dictators in many cases came into power with the consent, tacit or announced, of the people, who were floundering in the Slough of Despond and were willing to try anything.

True, some dictators have far exceeded the authority which the people meant them to have. However, there are few dictators the people couldn't get rid of if they set out to do so. If that statement seems far-fetched, I call attention to the fact that the Allies expect to achieve victory by causing a revolution in Germany.

Should the above thought regarding a worldwide ferment be near the truth, then we may expect the present upheaval to continue, and probably increase.

The end will see a greatly changed social structure, both national and international.

Statements of Pope and President Agree on Basic Peace Aims.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

IT HAS been said that the President's letter to the Pope and the sending of Myron Taylor to the Vatican are a maneuver to divert pacifist groups in this country who are pressing for an effort to stop the war and make whatever sort of peace can now be obtained from Hitler and Stalin.
This might have done for an explanation had the President's letter not been followed immediately by the Pope's address to the College of Cardinals. To those who will read and compare the two documents attentively it will be evident that the explanation in terms of local American politics is no explanation at all. For it is not only in their general aspirations that the two documents agree but also in their practical judgment of the actual situation.

This is important. For while the President has access to more information than any other American, and a better opportunity to learn the truth, his sympathies are ardent and his judgment has often been wrong. The Pope has even better sources of information because the hierarchy in all the countries of Europe is closer to the people of all stations in life than our own diplomatic and consular officials can hope to be; and the Pope, as head of a universal church, is likely to judge more im-partially than the chief executive of one nation. Yet from a reading of his address it is evident that the President's judgment about the origins and the issues and the consequences of the war does not differ essentially from that of the Pope. In fact, the Pope spoke even more explicitly than the President, so explicitly that his address has had to be ignored in Germany and, of course, in Russia.

Vital Questions

The crucial point in all contemporary judgment of the war is whether peace negotiations can and should be initiated now, taking the military status quo as the basis of negotiations. That, of course, has been Hitler's political aim ever since he completed the conquest of Poland. It has some open support in England and some hidden support in France among the extreme reactionaries of the right and among the remnants of the Communist party. It has much more support among the frightened neutrals of Europe, among those who feel that their only safety is in bringing about a peace at any price. In this country there is also considerable support for this program, from Nazi sympathizers, of course, and from communists, from naive conservatives who will cling to the notion that Hitler will fight bolshevism for them, but most of all from those who have decided that to be neutral they must be indifferent and to be impartial they dare not distinguish between right and wrong.

The Pope does not lend his exalted moral authority to the view that the Allies should enter into negotiations on the basis of the military status quo; he asks them
"notwithstanding war and its horrible needs" to "hold themselves entirely ready to define clearly, so far as they are concerned, the fundamental points of a just and honorable peace." When? The Pope says "at the opportune moment." And when is the opportunity? "Whenever," says the Pope, "the occasion presents itself with necessary guarantees and security."

Points Listed

In the Pope's address this declaration is followed immediately by the definition of five fundamental points of a just and honorable peace. The first point is of the most immediate practical importance because it defines not only "the fundamental condition" of a good peace but also what is in essence the first condition of the opening of peace negotiations.
A good peace, he says, "must assure the right of life and independence of all nations, large, small, strong or weak," and "one nation's will to live must never be tantamount to a death sentence for another." That is the foundation of peace.

MYRON TAYLOR

But, and here is the condition which the Pope lays down for negotiating such a peace, here are the "necessary guarantees and security" which, if given, would make the moment "opportune" for negotiation. "When the equality of rights has been destroyed, injured or imperiled, judicial order requires separation whose measure and extent is not determined by the sword or selfish arbitrary judgment, but by the standards of justice and reciprocal equity."

There is no doubt that this refers to Poland and Finland, two countries named by the Pope, and that it must include Czechoslovakia as well. The Pope's position is that a just peace cannot be negotiated, that the opportune moment, with its necessary guarantees and security, will not have arrived unless the injury done the victims of aggression is repaired.

Come Back!

Confession: How a Man Feels Alone in His Own House When His Wife's Away Temporarily.

By DAMON RUNYON

FUNNY thing about a house. When the woman goes from it, even on the briefest of accenses, it is no place for a man to be.
Nothing looks the same. Nothing feels the same. Nothing is the same. A house from which the woman has gone is empty. The furniture remains, to be sure, but it gives the impression of having lost its interest.

When the woman is there it seems alive and on its toes.
When she is away, it stands around, each table and chair in its appointed place, listless and dispirited, like a crowd of discouraged men. Even the pictures on the wall seem to hang curiously lifeless.

If the man goes into the kitchen he notices that though it is spick and span, with all the utensils filed away in their order, it is dismal. When the woman is there it is bright and warm and teeming with inviting odors. The white refrigerator doesn't stare at him with a blank expression.

If it is a house of long hallways and a number of rooms, it becomes ghostly. Footfalls echo in weird fashion. When the woman is there the man goes home to a scene of deft and gay lighting. He never notices dark corners. Now that she is absent, doors stand ominously ajar, exposing caverns of sinister gloom.

THE man wonders uneasily if some evil mug is lurking there to do him hurt. He remembers reading of such things. The hair on the back of his neck lifts like the hackles of an agitated hound. A slight chill runs along his spine as he hastens past the openings.

Later, perhaps, before retiring he investigates the room, turning on the lights to dispel the gloom and peering under beds and into closets in which hangs clothing in depressing limpness. He tries to think what he would do in the event he found someone.

He is not afraid, understand. There is nothing to be afraid of. It is just by way of precaution—the same precaution with which he carefully locks his bedroom door on going to bed, though when the woman is there he never thought of locked doors. In the silence of the night he hears creepy noises. The wind rattling the windows suggests sly fingers trying the catches.

A door slams and he has a shivery feeling of someone moving stealthily through the house. He does not believe in spirits, but he dives deep under the covers to shut out sound, at the risk of smothering to death. Perhaps he reflects that the woman, when alone in the house during his own absences may have been similarly perturbed. He makes a noble resolution never again to leave her in solitude.

WHEN the woman is away, the man sits late at his dinner in a restaurant. He remains away from the house as long as he can find someone to stay up with him. He knows that when he goes to the house there will be no answering call to his voice or to his whistle.

Perhaps he reflects on the times when the woman was in the house that he has gone home on laggard feet, meditating sourly at every step the routine of the house itself. He vows that never more will he permit himself such thoughts.

It is a vow not long remembered when the woman is in the house again and the furniture returns to life and the comfort of her presence permeates the premises. That is the great thing about the woman in the house—the comfort of her presence. The woman may be a frailittle thing afraid of a beetle but when she is in the house she is a guarantee of tranquility and safety to the strongest man.

WE know a man who once had to go home to a house from which the woman was temporarily absent and had to do some work that night. While working he suddenly became aware that someone in the room with him was breathing heavily. He looked around and saw no one and resumed working but the breathing continued. Finally the man forgot of the house is dismal and went to join some of the boys.

To his astonishment the heavy breathing followed him out of the house and into taxicab. It took him some minutes to realize that he was doing the breathing himself. It could not have happened to him when the woman was in the house.

No, a house from which the woman has gone is no place for a man. The lingerie perfume she leaves behind her is not enough to compensate for her taking with her the personality of the premises and removing it the barrier of protection to a man.

ICC REPORTS IN RAIL CRASH

'Malicious Tampering' Blamed
in Wreck of Streamliner Fatal to Nine.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—The Interstate Commerce Commission reported today that "malicious tampering" with the tracks caused the derailment of the Southern Railway's streamliner train "City of San Francisco" near Marion, Ky., Aug. 12. Nine passengers and 15 dining car employees were killed. In addition, 89 passengers and 14 employees were injured.

The commission said that the evidence showed the train was not moving in excess of the maximum authorized speed of 60 miles an hour when it was derailed.

"The train was riding smoothly and there was no indication of defective equipment," the commission said.

"Prior to arrival at the point of derailment the track was structurally sound, maintained in excellent condition, and the automatic signals were displaying proper indications."

"Upon entering the curve on which the accident occurred, the engineer saw an object about 300 feet distant, which later was found to be a tumbled wheel, lying on the south or high rail of the curve. When the train reached that point the front truck became derailed and the engine man thought that a rock had been struck."

"Subsequent examination of the track disclosed that on the south rail the angle bars had been removed from a joint located 169.5 feet east of bridge (No.) 518.54 and the angle bars, bolts, nuts and tight-lock washers were lying adjacent to the disconnected rail. Apparently a wrench had been used to remove the nuts as none of the bolts was cut or broken."

Russia Broadcasts Peace Proposal

By The Associated Press
LONDON, Dec. 29.—Peace proposals to the Finnish people were reported by London listeners to have been broadcast today by a Russian station over the wave length of the Finnish Lahti station which temporarily went out of action during an air raid.

The announcer said Russians wanted to end the hostilities as much as the Finns and that if a truce were reached the Karelian area would be returned to Finland, all Finnish workers would be given holidays with pay and large estates would be liquidated.

(In the negotiations which preceded the war Moscow offered to cede Karelian territory in return for Finnish concessions.)

Finnish circles in London said the proposals were ridiculous, that Finns already had paid holidays and that most of the land was owned by peasants.

Russia Switches Generals in Finland

By The Associated Press
MOSCOW, Dec. 29.—Soviet Russia, whose communications on the Finnish campaign of late have been on the nothing-important-to-report variety, has switched generals and renewed rigid censorship of foreign news dispatches.

Gen. G. M. Stern, hero of Russia's "vest pocket" war of 1938 with Japanese Manchoukuo forces, was reliably reported chosen as chief of the Leningrad military district and of a reinforced Red army to fight Finland.

Gen. K. A. Meretskov, former commander, was said to have been called on the carpet Dec. 29 to explain the lack of impressive successes in the invasion. His dismissal as head of the Finnish drive was said to have followed.

EFFECT OF WAR ON STEEL REVIEWED

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Sudden war in Europe is the opinion of the magazine Iron Age, "would not necessarily be catastrophic to the American steel industry," but it would not tend to improve operating schedules.

The steel manufacturing journal, in a year-end forecast today, asserted that, unless the war should end suddenly, the steel business in 1940 probably should enjoy a steady and fairly good volume.

It predicted that with the continuance of the war, foreign trade would be an important factor in determining whether 1940 would be a good steel year or merely a fair 12 months.

HUNT SLAYER OF LOS ANGELES GIRL

By The Associated Press
LOS ANGELES, Dec. 29.—The nude body of a 17-year-old girl, who was found in a shallow ditch and today police hunted the person who had stabbed her so brutally a four-inch knife blade was imbedded in her shoulder.

The victim was identified, hours after the body was found, as Alice (Betty) Burns, wife of L. C. (Cory) Burns, former San Bernardino, Calif., railway employee.

Burns had gone with Mrs. Burns to a movie and returned late where a "strange man" had dined a drink, and she left him at 4:30 a. m.

All Scandinavia Faces Threat of War Against Reds

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

The Russo-Finnish war is experiencing pronounced growing pains.

There is a tendency toward expansion westward to draw in Sweden and Norway as allies of their small neighbor. Such an alliance may even mean a Russian flying death on shore and secure a decisive Red victory in the immediate future.

Ever since the Communists invaded Finland a month ago Sweden and Norway have been living in dread that the Soviet might try to reach still further and impose its will on them as well as on eastern Poland, the three Baltic states and Finland.

Each day that the conflict is protracted now increases the danger of Swedish-Norwegian intervention. And the chances of a Russo-Scandinavian war merging with the European upheaval are obvious.

Sweden and Norway have been treading the straight and narrow path of neutrality, being in precarious positions as regards both Russia and Germany. However, the amount of unofficial aid which has been going forward to Finland from both these countries, in the way of money, supplies, and volunteer troops, leaves no doubt to the sympathies of the general public.

Both Fear Germany
The main fear of Sweden and Norway is that any support, even unofficial, given to Finland may draw fire from Germany. A German foreign office spokesman has charged England and France with inciting Finland to resist Russia, so to cut off the Nazi supplies from Europe. Germany gets many essentials, especially the all important iron, from Sweden.

However, should Germany retaliate by sending aid to the Scandinavian countries, their automatically would become allies of the Anglo-French brotherhood. As such they would receive the full support of England and France.

While there has been no official intimation, one is entitled to suspect that a matter of such vital importance must have been discussed between the Anglo-French and the Scandinavian countries. One would think that it would suit the plans of Britain and France admirably to have Sweden and Norway give their full support to Finland, since any contingency which keeps the Communists from serving Germany, and cuts that nation off from northern supplies, is all to the good from the Anglo-French standpoint.

Natural Fats Saved
Germany's immediate purpose, Dr. Lange said, is to make industrial fats, mostly soaps, which need not be so pure as the edible kind, in order to save her natural fats for food.

The method, known as the Fischer-Tropsch process, started on large-scale fat manufacture two years ago. Last midsummer the first two plants reached a production of 60,000 tons annually. Germany's total industrial fat needs total 230,000 tons.

The cost of making the coal fats, he said, is nearly twice that of natural fat. The figure is low for a new industry.

Every Person Is Radio Station

By STEPHEN J. McDONOUGH
Associated Press Science Writer
COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 29.—Every person and every living thing on earth is a radio broadcasting and receiving set unconsciously sending out and receiving long-wave wireless messages.

Prof. J. R. Rabi, Dr. P. Kusch and Dr. S. Millman, of Columbia University, told the American Association for the Advancement of Science today that all atoms, whether part of the heart tissue of man or a piece of steel, constantly emit radio waves which can be detected and measured.

Even death of an animal organism does not mean the stopping of activity, they said, since the atoms which form part of the living cell continue to emit radiation after the organism as a whole has ceased to function.

Waves Measured
The Columbia scientists measured these radio waves from atoms for the first time and found them similar to the action of visible light, even though the waves are much shorter and can be detected only by delicate apparatus.

The importance of this discovery and measurement is not the sole proof that the human body is a broadcasting station, they declared. The method also was used in exact studies of the nucleus of the atom.

All nuclei of atoms and the particles which surround them spin much like a top. The spinning is irregular, the particles of the atoms jumping with the speed of light from one point to another. "The radio waves which we have studied are emitted when the atoms pass from one of these states to another," they said.

In their experiments, the Columbia scientists measured these radio waves with an accuracy 10,000 times better than has ever before been achieved, by shooting particles of atoms at high speed between two magnets.

FINAL PLEA MADE IN HEALTH SEAL DRIVE

Workers Only $264 Short of Goal; Ahead of Year Ago.

With only $264.95 remaining to reach the 1939 goal of $1,500 in the annual Christmas Health Seal sale, officers of the Marion County Anti-Tuberculosis League today made a final appeal to residents of Marion city and county to make their purchases before Monday.

To date $1,235.05 has been received, according to reports of Mrs. George Lish, chairman of the city sale, and Mrs. R. A. Todd, chairman of the county sale. The amount is about $200 over last year at a corresponding time.

The league's first report to the Ohio Public Health Association must be made next Tuesday and officers of the league are anxious to have the seals either purchased or returned before that time.

Money is still being received almost daily, according to Mrs. W. E. Miley, secretary of the league.

This year the chairman have received a number of letters commending the league for the sale of seals to combat tuberculosis, both from those who purchased the seals and from those who felt they could not buy but wanted the league to know their interest.

American Dreyfus Cites His Case As Threat To Liberty

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—With war in Europe, Oberlin M. Carter views the principle underlying his self-styled "American Dreyfus case" as a serious threat to the civil liberties of all Americans.

For 49 years the former army captain, a brilliant engineer, has been fighting to clear his name of the stigma of a court martial conviction that blasted his career and sent him to Leavenworth prison for a seven year term.

His conviction of a charge of grafting on a harbor project at Savannah, Ga., he reiterated in an interview today, was based on trumped up evidence to satisfy the jealousies of army associates.

Named by Grant
Appointed to West Point by President Grant, he was graduated in 1880 with the highest record ever attained by a cadet up to that time—1939.6 credits out of a possible 1950. His work on the Savannah project heaped on him the praise of American and foreign engineers. Only a captain, he was appointed to the Nicaragua canal commission, military attaché to the London embassy and war department representative to the International Engineering Congress in Stockholm. Then, he related, those who resented his progress and success conspired to break him.

To explain his point that his case left open "an unsuspicious road to military dictatorship," Carter related:

"With nations at war in Europe, there is no telling at what moment we might be plunged into an Emergency measures could be enacted; courts martial could usurp the powers of civil courts. Civilians could be tried and convicted on 'made' evidence and would, as my case has shown, be permitted no appeal through the civil courts."

Threat To Liberty
"No court, civil or military, should be able to lose out the bill of rights. If the principle upheld in these cases by my conviction is sustained by congress, then we might as well bid goodbye to liberty."

Last July the house military affairs committee voted to approve a bill wiping out the 40-year-old verdict convicting Carter. He said he expected the senate committee on military affairs to act similarly when congress reconvened.

"With this promised help, this is my first hopeful Christmas and New Year season in 40 years," he declared.

The war department insists Carter's claim is baseless and stated it offered him all its records of the case.

PRESIDENT TO FILL TREASURY POSITION

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—President Roosevelt announced today that he would name Daniel W. Bell, former acting budget director, to the vacant post of under-secretary of the treasury.

At a press conference Mr. Roosevelt said he would submit the nomination to the senate when congress assembles.

Bell now is an assistant to the secretary of the treasury. He has been reluctant heretofore to give up his civil service status to take an appointive job, but President Roosevelt said today he believed Bell could stay out of the civil service a certain number of years and then go back without losing civil service status.

Largest Family in County United

is eager to expand the farm. He would like to have more land, and next spring will take one step toward expansion by building a barn that will be 120 feet long and 30 feet wide. He believes it will be one of the largest barns in the county.

"I'd like to get the farm up to the place where it will handle from 350 to 400 hogs a year and a lot more cattle than we now have," he said.

The boys still living at home share their father's enthusiasm for big scale farming activities and don't shrink from work. All members of the family have their daily tasks, and the boys, from Earl on up all pitch in.

Around the large, nine-room house there is much work to be done, but here again the job is accomplished by dividing the work, although the present setup only leaves two daughters at home to help Mrs. Kuba, a robust, jovial woman.

A Busy Department
The kitchen is kept busy. In addition to the 13 to 20 loaves of bread purchased from commercial bakeries each week, Mrs. Kuba frequently bakes six to eight loaves. Four pies hold out for two meals, provided there are plenty of meat and potatoes on the table before dessert is served. Some idea of the amount of meat prepared and eaten by the family is indicated by the fact that the average yearly butchering includes four hogs and a dozen hens.

Mr. and Mrs. Kuba were married on Dec. 1, 1904 at Ruskoville and lived there several years. Later they moved to East Liberty. From there the family went to Lakeview to operate a 1,200-acre farm on shares, remaining there until March 2, 1935, when Mr. Kuba bought the farm on which the family now lives.

The appearance of the farm testifies to Mr. Kuba's success as a farmer. In the well-kept house is comfortable furniture, plumbing and a hot-water heating plant. In the basement there is a large recreation room with a full-size pocket billiards table.

Mr. Kuba's personal belongings include a huge stallion that has won county fair prizes and is valued at several hundred dollars.

Hard work and careful planning are Mr. Kuba's rules for successful farming. He doesn't make light of scientific methods, but asserts that practical experience as well as theory are required in successful farming. Another of his oft-repeated assertions is "you can't be on the road driving an automobile all the time and look after your farm like you want to." Because he practices what he preaches, Mr. Kuba is able to travel in a nearly new medium priced automobile when he finds time to go anywhere.

INDEPENDENT UNION REJECTED IN BALLOT

By The Associated Press
CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 29.—Employees of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. at Mansfield, O., have rejected the Westinghouse Employees' Association, Inc., as a collective bargaining agent.

Oscar S. Smith, regional director of the national labor relations board, said yesterday's vote was 1,445 against representation by the independent union and 943 for.

He said 2,402 of 2,700 eligible employees participated in the election. Two ballots were voided and 12 were blank.

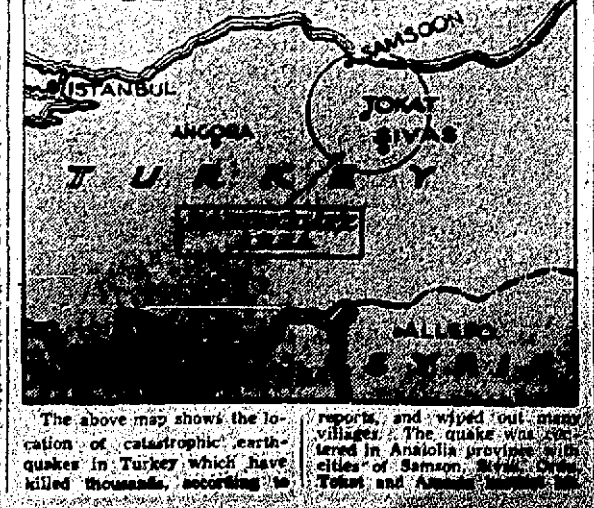

The NLRB ordered the election on a petition by the association, which claimed 1,300 members. The United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers (C.I.O.) made a similar membership claim. Smith said, and the board originally specified the election should be between the independent and C.I.O. unions.

An amended order limited the election to a vote on representation by the association. The board said the electric workers did not desire to participate at this time.

WOODRIDGE REPORTS ON ARMY ACTIVITIES

Notable Progress Made on Rivers and Harbors Work.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—Secretary Woodridge reported "notable" progress today in the work of improving rivers and harbors and controlling floods.

In his annual report on the civil activities of the army engineers, Woodridge noted:

"Traffic on our improved channels for the calendar year 1938 amounted to 466,900,000 tons, valued at $17,919,000,000."

The engineers expended $189,426,334 in the fiscal year ended last June 30, slightly less than the year before.

"This expenditure has furnished approximately 204,000,000 man-hours of direct employment and a very considerable amount of supplemental indirect employment, resulting in the completion of New York on 18 river and harbor projects and 18 flood control projects, and 224 other projects," Woodridge reported.

"Maintenance work was also carried out on 246 previously completed projects."

Among the channel improvements, Woodridge emphasized those made to 30 rivers and harbors on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts and the Great Lakes, the coastal inland waterways system, and on the Mississippi, Ohio and Missouri rivers.

Summarizing the report thus listed a year's progress on specific major rivers-harbors undertakings:

Inland waterways—more than 2,500 miles long.

Ohio river—nine foot channel maintained by system of 46 locks and dams, commercial traffic 20,887,402 tons during 1938.

Flood control projects included: Ohio river basin—about 1,000 miles of levees and local protection works in nine areas.

"Marked progress" made on three systems of levees in the Wabash river basin.

Aside from these, the engineers are building the Washington national airport across the Potomac from the national capital, are surveying the Ohio river to determine future navigation possibilities, and have undertaken a survey for a canal and highway across Nicaragua.

FACTORY WAGES

ing counties, five of them in Ohio, recorded gains over 1929.

A second group of 30 counties paid $2,339,000,000 to make up a second 25 per cent of the nation's 1937 total. Kings county, N. Y., led this list with $156,803,490.

A third quarter of the county's 1937 manufacturing wages was paid in a group of 116 counties, with a total of $2,583,134,240, and the balance of $2,329,658,034 was paid by manufacturing establishments scattered through 2,700 counties.

DR. DAFEO TO QUIT AS QUINCE GUARDIAN

By The Associated Press
MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Dec. 29.—Arthur Slaght, guardian of Dr. Alfred Dafeo, confirmed reports today that the famous little doctor will retire from his guardianship of the Dionne quintuplets.

Slaght said Dr. Dafeo would continue as personal physician to the children.

The other guardians will continue with Percy Wilson, guardian of all children in the province, retaining as final authority the problem arising as to which the guardians differ on even as to which they agree.

Dr. Dafeo's retirement from the guardianship, Slaght said, will be effective as soon as his resignation is accepted by Premier Mitchell Hepburn's Ontario government.

The attorney said he declined to have a hearing on whether the children will leave their special nursery and return to live with their parents. He added:

"That will be decided in the future, to the satisfaction of all concerned."

TWO ACCUSED OF ROBBING RELIEF AID

CLEVELAND, Dec. 29.—John Evenden, 21, and Mrs. Margaret Komarnek, 48, were charged today with robbing a relief committee, who was beaten and left on a lonely road.

Another man who accompanied them will be charged with intoxication, said Detective Sergeant David Kerr. He took no part in the robbery.

Kerr said Evenden and Mrs. Komarnek confessed getting into Jones car and robbing him yesterday. It took Jones 10 minutes to get away from the car, he was left.

The trio was arrested when they wrecked the car.

DIRECTOR PROPOSES BUC COMPROMISE

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 29.—Administrative R. C. Ackison, proposed today a compromise in the long dispute over methods used by the bureau of unemployment compensation in determining benefits paid to the idle. It would raise the average weekly benefit from $10.25 to $11.30.

He asked the bureau's board of review to approve a new formula for calculating average weekly wages and said it would increase benefits from the present $10.25 to $11.30.

Better Business in New Year Seen by Administration

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—The administration is looking to the new year for better business in the hope that it may bring not only political success but more revenue to cut down the federal deficit.

Government economists, though they specify reservations a mile long, believe that 1940 will be generally a pretty good business year—not so good as 1929 but better than any year since then.

Right now factories are shown by available statistics to be turning out about as much goods as they did at the height of 1929, so that most of the economists' doubts arise not from the prospect of a slump, but from the prospect of consumption currently, goods are not being bought as fast as they are being produced.

President Roosevelt himself has used the business outlook into his fiscal problem, predicting that the budget could be balanced without increasing taxes when there is an $83,000,000,000 national income. This figure, which approximates the national production of wealth in 1929, is about $10,000,000,000 more than Secretary of Commerce Hopkins has estimated was achieved this year.

During the first 31 weeks of calendar year 1939 the treasury spent $3,328,000,018 and took in $3,437,860,414, creating a deficit of $3,890,337,631. Last year, in 31 weeks, the treasury spent $3,309,950,233 and took in $3,373,860,716, making a deficit of $2,373,860,716.

The administration explains the bigger deficit this year, in spite of better business, as caused by intentionally heavier spending to turn business upward, barring another recession such as the one in 1937, the administration theory calls for 1940 and future years to reap the benefits of higher tax collections resulting from business created by this year's expenditures.

The President is expected to predict a deficit of about $3,000,000,000 when he sends to congress next week his message on the budget for the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

ATHENS CO. FUNDS FOUND FOR RELIEF

By The Associated Press
ATHENS, O., Dec. 29.—State and Athens county officials got down to specific figures today in their hunt for a solution to the county's relief problem which produced a request to President Hoover for soup kitchens as the "only hope" of the needy there.

Auditors from the state welfare department called in county commissioners to discuss a relief financing program based on a three-day investigation of county records. State officials have dispatched county claims that no local funds for relief were available.

Welfare Director Charles Sherwood said in Columbus he learned unofficially his auditors already had uncovered $6,000 that could be used for relief but county authorities disclaimed knowledge of it.

Gov. Bricker scheduled a capital conference, meanwhile, with Sherwood to determine if the county could use immediately more than $20,000 in excess taxes which Athens officials claimed pledged on a $25,000 relief deficit.

While a committee of unemployed awaited a reply from its telegram to Washington, the federal government augmented its distribution of relief commodities in the county through the WPA.

Governor Bricker conferred yesterday with state Sen. H. T. Phillips of Athens county and Rep. Floyd Meek of Meigs county, both Republicans. Phillips declared the vote against a 1.5 mill relief levy, defeated in a special election Dec. 18, was strongest in the district now raising the greatest clamor, the governor said.

name, the walls of a great military barracks were the only masonry last standing.

The city was almost destroyed by an earthquake in 1741.

Farther north, where the 10,000-foot peaks of the Jura mountains meet the Black Sea, entire villages were buried as steep cliffs tumbled down.

The sea, on which there was a violent storm two days before the earthquake, was driven by a high wind that sent it pounding against the shore.

Ships were smashed against buildings and seaside homes were carried away with their occupants.

The chaos of communications made full reports impossible, but officials put together a ghastly jigsaw puzzle of death and demolition.

More Quakes Due, Scientist Declares

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 29.—Earthquakes which killed thousands in the Erzerum regions of Turkey will be followed by a series of five to 10 aftershocks over a period of six months, according to Dr. Kirkley P. Mather, an authority on earthquakes.

Dr. Mather, professor of geology at Harvard university and here for the American Association of Advancement of Science convention, said today that the catastrophe probably was caused by a deep focus earthquake having its focal point 10 to 20 miles below the surface of the earth.

"This is a region of young mountains and the earth crust is being pushed upward by the forces of the sea," he said. "It is not dangerous to any individual if he is in open country. The high death rate occurs in cities where debris crashes down on the population."

For a number of years Dr. Mather was in charge of the seismograph station at Harvard. The scientist formerly was professor of geology at Denison university, Granville, O.

INCREASE IN FARM SUPERVISION SEEN

By The Associated Press
PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 29.—The long-time trend in agriculture is likely to be toward more supervision and control, Arthur C. Peterson, senior economist of the department of agriculture, told the American Farm Economics association here last night.

"The association is holding its convention with 12 other organizations as part of the Allied Social Science associations."

"We may expect more legislative action to encourage operator-ownership of farms," Peterson said. "Government financing of agriculture, taxation policies, and state exemption laws will doubtless be directed toward this goal."

Marriage Meddlers
By ADELE GARRISON
Madge informs Queen that Veritzen plans surprise call on her.

PRINCESS OLINA'S message from her mother was like a reprieve to me. I had dreaded seeking an interview with her, and had been appalled by the prospect of revealing my real reason for wishing to talk to her, when I had no possible excuse for broaching the subject.

But if she wished to talk to me, that was "something else again." As Mary would say, and even as I told Olina that I would go over and see her mother at once, my brain was racing over the possibilities opened up by this request from my royal guest.

One thing was certain. I no longer was faced with the task of plunging "cold" into the story I intended to tell Queen Olga. I could wait and see what it was she wished of me. Perhaps—I thrilled at the thought—something in her own conversation might give me the very opportunity I needed.

Will Tell Her of Visit
But one thing I meant to tell her at once, so that she might have time to "harpoon" beforehand. Before she had a chance to tell of anything else I would tell her that I expected Philip Veritzen to believe that he was coming in connection with my play, and that he had said not to tell her he was coming so that he could "surprise" her. I would ask her not to repeat this to him, giving her the impression that she was protecting me, and in that way I would not have to betray to Olina's mother the story of her daughter's stealthy nocturnal telephone message to Philip Veritzen, and of her appointment with him.

But despite the reassurance her request for an interview had given me, I found myself actually trembling when I knocked at the door of the suite with the barred windows, where Queen Olga and her daughter were guarded "in sanctuary" from the conspirators who were seeking their lives. But when I entered at the queen's "Come in," and saw her looking at me intently, yet with an odd, shy hesitancy in her manner, I felt upon me the conviction that Olga was as tremendously interested in our coming talk as I was.

Grateful to Madge
"It is so good of you, Madge, to come to me," she said in greeting. "I should have come to you, but I really was not up to dressing so early."

"Do not speak of it," I said. Then I purposely hesitated, as if I confused "Tell me," I said, "do you like surprise visits from masculine friends or acquaintances?" Her head went up and the

"MIXED UP" TRAFFIC CASE GETS HEARING

Three Found Not Guilty of Reckless Driving.

Three men were found not guilty by Municipal Judge Martin Monday of reckless driving charges filed against them following a minor traffic accident here. The men were Mittle Moore, 29, of 329 State street, Jean B. Moore, 23, of Detroit, Mich., and Brooks G. Moore, 23, of Detroit. The case, which court officials describe as one of the "most mixed-up" cases to come up in court here in recent years, followed an accident on North Main street extension last week in which a car driven by Mittle Moore collided with an auto in which six Detroit men were riding.

Mittle Moore pleaded not guilty to arraignment the day of the accident. He was found guilty by Judge J. D. Williamson. Then Moore filed a reckless driving charge against Ledbetter naming him as the driver of the other car. Ledbetter and the other five occupants of the Detroit car said that Jean Moore, and not Ledbetter, was the driver. Yesterday morning Mittle Moore filed a reckless driving charge against Jean Moore.

At the opening of the court session yesterday, at which both Judge Martin and Judge Williamson were present, Judge Martin granted an oral motion by George T. Geran, attorney for Mittle Moore, that his client be granted a new trial. At the suggestion of Williamson, Judge Martin heard all three cases simultaneously.

Judge Martin, in giving his decision, refraining from deciding whether Jean Moore or Ledbetter was driving the Detroit car but said there was insufficient evidence to show that any of the defendants were guilty. The Detroit men were represented by Ralph E. Canhart.

Nu-Way's Lead in City Pin Tournery Holds Up Under 14-Team Barrage

Wright Transfer Squad Takes Over Second Place with 2,927.

FOURTEEN quailers from the Industrial and City leagues rolled city tournament games last night as activity moved through the third round at the Marion Recreation Center.

None of the competing clubs bettered the previous heavy handicap total of 2,972, compiled Wednesday night by the Nu-Way Shoe Repair kedgers.

Wright Transfer & Storage pin-toppers of the City league rapped the maples for a new high series of 2,816. The club got a handicap of only 111 pins, however, enough to come within 45 of the Nu-Way mark.

Last night's pin bombardment left only four of the previous leaders among the Big Ten. With Wrights riding into runner-up spot, Stone's Grill dropped to third, only three pins behind, with a 2,924.

Paulson's Grill crew, leaders of the Industrial league, jumped into fourth place with a 2,879, and in fifth, only six pins back is Cheney & Son Signs. Weller's Grill hill 2,815 to top sixth spot, lowering Buettlin Sales, with 2,842, from third to seventh.

Esso Oils, fourth yesterday, skidded to eighth with 2,838 and following the pack in the nine and 10 spots, respectively, are City Tee & Fuel, 2,807 and Schaffner Furniture, 2,805.

A triple set of games well over the 900 mark was the last paced set by Wrights pinbusters. D. Wolbert led the Transfer crew with a 622 total, shooting the best single game of 235, while R. Dean, anchor-man, hammered out a 234.

Grid Coaches Want More Kick in Game

By The Associated Press
LOS ANGELES, Calif., Dec. 29—News and views on the American Football Coaches association and the National Collegiate Athletic association, meeting here concurrently.

Coaches want the foot put back in football. Some of them, perhaps, recall losing games by one point last season. A 30-man committee, representing a cross section of the country's coaching talent, voted yesterday to recommend to the national football rules committee, adoption of new goal posts, wider and lower than the standards now in use. If the rule is adopted, as some think it will be, there should be a boom market for drop and place kicking specialists.

The mentors, however, neglected to put their best foot forward. The graduate engineers among them failed to lay down specifications. The powerful rules body could grant the wish by the technical side-tracking of widening the uprights one inch and lowering the cross bar that much.

Other suggestions to be passed on to the rules makers include reduction of the penalty for an illegal receiver being hit by a passed ball behind the goal line from 15 to 5 yards; adoption of a three-eighth inch cleat instead of the present half-inch ground gripper and physical examination of all games officials.

Some of the coaches were of the opinion that a lot of officials were too slow to be out on the field.

Faculty athletic representatives and other educators who make up the N. C. A. A. huddled today with the coaches in joint session to discuss "the function of national associations in inter-collegiate athletics."

Later in the convention, the N. C. A. A. bosses intend to pick this subject to pieces cleaner than the carcass of a holiday turkey.

The Stanford coaching situation provided the day's guessing contests. Francis Schmidt of Ohio State and Clark Shaughnessy of Chicago, both prominently mentioned as successors to C. E. Thornhill, who will depart March 31, both denied having seen heard from or talked to Stanford officials. One Stanford authority, however, said he had received several flattering recommendations in Shaughnessy's behalf.

SNATCHES OF SPORTS

By ROBERT MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer
(Sitting In for Eddie Brietz)

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 29—Today's boldest prediction: The 1941 Rose Bowl game will be between the Washington Huskies and the winner of the Texas-Texas A. M. war at Austin.

Tiddits, odd and otherwise: Kayak II is the solid horse to win the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap, but Seabiscuit is still the people's sentimental favorite. Sammy Baugh evidently wasn't kidding last fall when he said Andy Farkas would be a sensation with the Washington Redskins. The pro footballers, incidentally, are drilling quietly for their annual pro-bowl game here Jan. 7, the Green Bay Packers going against the National league all-stars in the affair. Green Bay and Washington were voted the most colorful pro clubs ever to show here.

Red Gange was the one-man riot. Harry (Truck) Hannah, new boss of the Memphis club, went into a huddle with Tennessee sports writers over the baseball prospects and emerged from the conference offering to bet that the Vols trim Southern California New Year's day. Speaking of the Rose Bowl, as who out here isn't, those Dallas Cotton Bowl folks certainly gave the Rose people a scare when they nearly signed Tennessee and the Texas Aggies for their game.

Today's Guest Star: Jack Troy of the Atlanta Constitution—U.S.C. had better quit worrying whether George Cafego's knee is good or bad and think about this boy Johnny Butler. He's the young man who really carried Tennessee in the Rose Bowl, and he's liable to carry S. C. out of it—feet first.

Two Ohioans on All-Negro Squad
By The Associated Press
ATLANTA, Dec. 29—An All-American Negro football team, including two players each from Langston (Okla.), Florida A. & M. and Morris Brown (Atlanta), was announced today by the Atlanta Daily World, Negro newspaper.

The selection—including a sophomore, Wilderforce's Herschel Schenley, a 266-pound tackle from Nebraska who kicked five field goals—was based on votes of players of the nation's 40 major Negro teams. Players were asked to select only the gridgers they had opposed.

Henry Butler of Columbus, O., Florida A. & M. back, was the most popular choice with 79 votes. Clifford Brown of Sidney, O., Langston end was among those selected.

Schoolboy's Victory Kick

Howell's Top 1939 Thrill

By FRITZ HOWELL
A. P. Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 29—The thrills of '39 . . . or thumbing back through a year of swell sports assignments!

We heard the yells and moans at the World Series, the cheers of 82,000 as Notre Dame beat Navy's gridders at Cleveland, the scream of 30-caliber bullets at Camp Perry's national matches, the roar of shoguns at the Grand American trapshoot . . . but our big moment of the passing year came in death-like quiet, broken only by the patter of raindrops on a press-box window.

It came the day Bob Wolff, substitute backfielder for Toledo Waite high school, backed up to his 31-yard line to boot a field goal against Portsmouth in the first annual Buckeye Bowl game at Ohio State university's stadium.

Quiet fell as he set up the play. If he missed, his team would lose. If he made it, his team would win. But he was the kid with the kick in the clutch. He made it. Waite won 9 to 7, but the teams were halfway to the dressing rooms before the crowd realized it and a mighty roar cracked across the stadium.

You can have the World Series, the big-time grid games, the roar of shoguns and rifles. . . We'll kick Bob Wolff's place-kick in the rain down deep in our memory book as our big thrill of '39.
